I S L A N D E R

HBI Custodians Celebrate a Decade at the Helm

Ten years ago Lois Taylor invited me to the Heriot Bay Inn to meet and chat with the then newly minted, self-titled custodians of this Quadra Island landmark. I say 'self-titled' only to stress that from the outset the eclectic group of investors subscribed to a vision of care and community for their new charge.

Now a decade later we gathered around the fireside once more as the custodians prepare to celebrate a landmark anniversary, ten years at the helm of the Heriot Bay Inn on October 31st. This time the earnest, perhaps a little anxious expressions of yesteryear are replaced with wide smiles and a noticeably more relaxed air.

"They didn't give us a chance" says Paul Mortimer harkening back to the bleak financial picture of 2008. Lois concurred describing making it through their first ninety days as one of the biggest surprises in their tenure. The global crash of '08 was just one of many unforeseen hurdles that had immediate repercussions with several of the original investors forced to rethink at a critical point in the custodians' take over.

Happily that all now is just part of the deep storied history of the Inn and today the 'old girl' is on sound financial footing.

"We're cash positive" says Mortimer "and the point of that is that we are going to leave the Inn to the next generations. We have three generations of families working here and that to me is success".

From the wider community's perspective there's no doubt that the custodians' vision of running a business while providing a focal point for entertainment and education has come to fruition.

TEN YEARS WITH THE HBI

Tracy Sinclair was instrumental in launching one of the HBI's most popular fixtures that's become a signature weekly-event: UofQ - the University of Quadra. A lecture series presented by local experts on a dazzling array of topics: chainsaw 101, growing bonsai, screen-printing, cannabis cuisine, canning preserves, you name it and it has been presented and thoroughly enjoyed at the UofQ. "Attendance on Wednesday nights when class is in session has rivalled some of the best Saturday night dances" Sinclair said.

Regular dinner shows have been equally successful with countless musical acts, comedians, theatrical performances entertaining diners in Herons dining room.

"It's been amazing to see each of the custodians bring their energy and ideas to life here" Juanita MacLean related. "The rent the Inn out weekend was Blake's [Dixie] brainchild and it's become hugely successful. We have to block off weekends now it has become so popular".

When Red Williams joined the investors group he saw that the marina dock was in sore need of repair and over the past few years with much help and generosity from throughout the community, along with a significant investment himself, has spearheaded a major refit.

It was a delight to spend time with some of the HBI custodians and sense their optimism and pride. The ties run deep for all of them from Tina Oswald's recollections as a young girl keeping horses on the campground field, to many of the custodians' children following in their footsteps working at the Inn. And we all breath a little easier knowing Paul's barstool is safe.

In closing Lois added "we appreciate the amazing community that we live, love and do business in and thank everyone for the past present and future support of this journey we are on. As Tina said we can't wait to see what the next ten years brings."

ISLAND FORUM

Sir,

I would like to thank Gabe Aston (Tip Top Chimneysweep) for helping me to fit a new firebricks to my wood burning fireplace. One of the five bricks is narrower than standard width, and I had terrible time trying to cut, or find someone to cut a brick to size. Mr Aston who cleaned my chimney has a diamond disk, and cut one of my firebricks to size, and did it gratis! I thought to thanks him this way and if you have similar problem, you should contact him.

About Our Rezoning Application

Hello Quadra Islanders,

Back in the January 5th issue of the DI, Spirit of the West Adventures announced our intention to apply for a rezoning of our property at Hyacinthe Bay Rd and Cramer Rd in Heriot Bay. After a lengthy review by the Regional District, the time for a public hearing has finally come! The meeting will be held at the Community Centre on November 5 at 7pm. Owners Rick and Breanne will be present to answer questions, so we'd like to invite you to attend and hear a bit about us, and provide your feedback to the proposal.

How We Vote

In a few days, Elections BC will be mailing a ballot to every registered BC voter. By return mail, we will be able to vote on which system we use in the future when electing our provincial MLAs.

As this mail-in referendum draws closer, the voices of both "Let's change the system" and "Let's keep it the same" are becoming louder and more frequent, and it appears that the results of the referendum may be close.

To help sort fact from fiction in this debate, I have done some digging into the Elections BC website at www.elections.bc.ca/ referendum, particularly to answer two questions:

Firstly, in any new system, will everyone in BC still have a local MLA to contact and to represent them? From the Elections BC website's description of each system, the answer is a clear "yes". Secondly, might a new system lead to electing MLAs from fringe parties with extremist views that they could impose on the larger parties in the Legislature? The Elections BC website states that a party generally would need at least 5% of the overall vote in order to elect any MLAs. I looked back on BC election results over the past 20 years, and no party other than the BC Liberals, the NDP and the Greens has ever come close to that 5% threshold.

Over those same 20 years, the number of registered BC voters who have turned out to vote at election time has slumped from 70% to 55%, suggesting more and more people are feeling "what's the use?". From what I've learned on the Elections BC website, I'm now even more convinced that a new system--of proportional representation--would be a good step forward for voters and our province.

--Kent Macaulay

A Groove Heavy Mix Of Mexican Folk, Cuban Son And Latin Soul.

Locarno

Quadra Cultural Events presents Locarno on Saturday, November 10, 2018 at the QCC at 7:30. This is a family friendly concert and everyone is invited to come out to listen, clap their hands, tap their toes and there will even be space for dancing! As well as the regular priced advance tickets for $17.00, children 12 and under will be admitted free. You can't get a better deal than that! Tickets will be $20 at the door.

Locarno is the Latin project of JUNO Award winning musician, Tom Landa. Like him, the music is equal parts Mexican and Canadian. Tom was born and raised in Mexico City, and moved to Canada in his teens. In the mid nineties he formed the Folk Roots band, The Paperboys, who have been touring world-wide for over 20 years. Tom has always dabbled in Latin music, and in 2005 decided to immerse himself more into genre, and started working on material for an album. In 2006 he was awarded a Canada Council Grant to study traditional Mexican Music in Veracruz, Mexico. Tom spent his days learning the jarana (an 8 string guitar), and learning songs from the Son Jarocho repertoire. Upon his return to Canada, Tom started working on what would be Locarno's debut CD.

In 2009 Tom decided it was high time to make the album he had been threatening to make. He joined forces with producer Joby Baker (Alex Cuba, Adonis Puentes, Cowboy Junkies) and trumpeter Miguelito Valdes (Omara Portuondo, Afro Cuban All Stars) who helped bring the album to life. In 2010 Locarno released 'Una Mas Y Ya Nos Vamos' The music was a mix of Son Jarocho inspired folk tunes with Afro-Cuban rhythms. The album went on to be nominated for a WCMA and garnered rave reviews.

Since then the band has honed in on their sound and incorporated more of their influences such as music from Columbia, African Sukous, Mexican Marimba Music, Venezuelan Joropo and Brazilian Forro Music. Perhaps where the band shines the most is in the live shows which features Tom Landa on jaranas and guitars, Kalissa Landa on violin, Robin Layne on marimba, congas and timbales, Pedro Mota on guitar an vocals, Aaron McKinney on bass, Liam MacDonald on drums, congas and pandero, Mark D'Angelo on trumpet and Nick La Rivere on trombone.

Locarno launched their second CD, 'Luz Y Sombra' in November 2015. The new CD is a great mix of all the different Latin idioms the band plays, and features 10 original songs, and two traditional Mexican folk songs. The CD was nominated for a Western Canada Music Award in the spring of 2016. As the CBC's Michael Juk says, "Don't miss the chance to see this band. You'll find yourself singing their praises too."

Many thanks are due to the Government of Canada, Canadian Arts Presentation Fund, the Province of British Columbia, BC Touring Council, British Columbia Arts Council and Electoral Area C through Jim Abram. Their financial support through various grants is invaluable!

Friday Flicks - Meditation Park

On October 26, 7:30 at Quadra Community centre, Friday Flicks presents Meditation Park.

Mina Shum directs an all-star cast — including Cheng Pei Pei, Sandra Oh, Tzi Ma, and Don McKellar — in her latest feature, about a devoted wife and mother who is forced to reassess her reverence for her husband after she finds another woman's undergarment in his laundry.

A complex film that hews with tenderness to Asian stereotypes in order to reflect back their often-obscured depths. - Julia Cooper, Globe and Mail

A Celebration of Life for Lesley Matthews

Saturday October 20th 2018 at the Quadra Island Community Centre

If Lesley touched your life in any way we would love for you to join us to celebrate her and all the love and colour that she has left behind. We will surround ourselves with her art and memories, among friends with great food and music.

We would like to honour Lesley with a service beginning at 5:00pm. If you are able to stay beyond and would like to join us for the celebration, please feel free to bring a potluck dish to share and your dancing shoes.

Thank you to this amazing community for all the support of our beautiful mom over the years. Especially her final years on the island. It's a wonderful thing to be in a place where so many have been warmed by her life, art, and love.

We would like to bring as much of her art into the room as we can, so if anyone has a special piece you are willing to share that would be wonderful. We will be at the Community Centre Friday between 10-2, so please feel free to drop off then, or contact us to arrange.

Lesley lived in colour, with glorious hats, wonderful dresses, fur coats and wild imagination. Please feel free to dress in a way that express's your inner soul and makes you feel happy. Wear your wildest hat in honour of her, flowers in your hair, paint smudges on your nose....

There will be a shuttle provided throughout the evening for rides home around the island.

Quadra Island Emergency Services Earthquakes and Campbell River Area.

Earthquakes do happen and this area is one of the most seismically active regions in Canada. As recently as 1946 a 7.3 quake occurred, the largest recorded on land in Canada, centred on Forbidden Plateau. The end of the Spit slid off and the evidence of land movement is still visible. Damage was fairly minor being confined largely to a few chimneys but today our population has increased and there are many more structures.

On Saturday, October 27 at 7.00pm as part of the annual North Island Disaster Preparedness Tradeshaw at Thunderbird Hall there will be a free presentation by Earthquake Seismologist Dr. Alison Bird from Natural Resources Canada. Dr. Bird will talk about earthquakes in this area, where our major fault lines are and what a major seismic event would look like. What would an earthquake mean for us? We all know to duck, cover and hold but do we really know what a large earthquake would feel like and its effect on this area. Would our ferry terminals survive?

Plan on attending this free presentation in the Thunderbird Hall at 1420 Wewaikum Rd. Bring your older children to hear an exceptional speaker on a topic of interest to us all. It will bring insight to what they learn in school and make it more relevant.

Quadra Literacy Books by Horse Delivery

Quadra Literacy, with horse ambassador Linda Richards, will be playfully honouring the spirit of literacy by holding our first Books By Horse Delivery Day on Tuesday, October 23rd, at 10AM in Hooleyville. Inspired by The Pack Horse Library Initiative (an American project) where librarians, mostly women, carried books by horseback to rural communities during the 1930s and early 40s.

We will do our inaugural horseback delivery of reading materials on Tuesday, October 23rd, starting at 10AM. Join us at the corner of Buker and Cutter, to say hello and receive a reading treat as we finish the Hooley loop.

The Wild Man of Quadra Island

The lifelike sculpture of a sasquatch at Rebecca Spit, headed south at a brisk stride, with his shaggy body, tapered fingers and beady eyes all created from driftwood, calls to mind reports of a sighting of a 'wild man' on Quadra in 1905.

The Pidcock family of Quathiaski Cove, who had a large house just to the north of the cannery, had just sat down to their late evening meal at 10:00 p.m. when a "ghastly face" peered through the window. "The face was covered with black hair," said the Vancouver World News, "only a small portion of skin being visible." It uttered "a diabolical scream" and vanished, though its prints remained in the soft earth of a flower bed beneath the window.

The family heard similar screams through the night and the next day they found footprints along a stream, presumably Quathiaski Creek. That evening the grown sons lay in wait outside, behind a pile of hay, and at 10:30 p.m. they heard "horrible yells" from the creek. Carrying their storm lanterns aloft, the Pidcock brothers hiked about half a mile upstream, where they came upon "a tall man, who was entirely naked, except for a few rags hanging from a belt at his waist." His body was covered with long hair. When one of the Pidcocks raised his rifle to his shoulder the creature dove into the creek and swam to the other side. Once there it cried out 'don't shoot,' and plunged into the bush and disappeared.

Nothing more was seen on Quadra of what the papers of the day called the wild man, or mowgli, after a Rudyard Kipling tale. There were, however, many such sightings in the mid-Vancouver Island region at this time, most of them centered around Parksville, Union Bay and Alberni. Some theorized it was a gorilla destined for a zoo that had washed ashore from a shipwreck some years before. Others proposed it was a man who'd got lost while hunting, or a man who'd gone insane while searching for gold during the rush of 1858.

The most credible of the sightings came from four hunters near Qualicum, who were together when they saw a man-like creature with a beard and long body hair. Renown timber cruiser Mike King, who often crossed Vancouver Island on his own, also gave what were believed to be a cogent report. He was behind Campbell River when he came upon a creature of "ape-like proportions" squatted down by a stream, where it was cleaning two bundles of wild onions. "I thought it was a bear at first," said King, "but when it heard me and straightened up I brought my rifle up to my shoulder for it was the strangest sight I ever expect to set eyes on." The creature stood over six feet tall and was covered in exceptionally long coarse black hair. "Its small eyes glared at me in surprise for an instant. It was just over two hundred yards distant," said King, who had it covered with his rifle. "After glaring at me for a moment it uttered a cry—a half-human sort to grunt—and grasping a branch, hoisted itself up the bank of the creek and ran away." King offered to lead a search party to find the wild man but there were no takers.

The Ladies Auxiliary will host a luncheon following the service. Membership initiations will be held at noon this year. There will be a social hour at 5:00pm for all Legion and LA members and spouse/guest, followed by dinner at 6:00pm with Honours & Awards and dancing to follow. Dinner seating is limited so RSVP for dinner before Nov 10 by email to info@branch154.ca or by calling Gillian Green at 250-285-3739.

This year only: communities across Canada will mark the 100th anniversary of the end of the First World War with the ringing of 100 bells. The ringing of bells emulates the moment in 1918 when church bells across Europe tolled as four years of war had come to an end. At our Legion, this will take place by the flagpole at sundown (4:44pm). All are welcome. If you are a descendant of a WWI veteran and would like to assist in ringing the bell, please contact Gillian (250-285-3739) or email info@branch154.ca.

Sierra BC environmental education workshop comes to Quadra elementary

Sierra Club BC Environmental Educators Kirsten Dallimore and Amira Maddison visited Quadra Elementary School on Friday, October 12. They facilitated nature-based workshops for all five classes at the school.

Sierra Club BC's Education Program recently marked 20 years of delivering environmental education workshops to children across the province. Since 1998, their educators have worked with close to 140,000 students at schools from Tofino and Surrey to Terrace and Fort St. John. During the 2017/18 school year alone, they facilitated 329 workshops for 7178 students at 116 different schools in 25 school districts across BC.

Sierra Club BC offers four free, hands-on, place-based workshops for K-8 students: Nature and Play (Kindergarten), Lifecycles and Ecosystems (Grades 1 and 2), People and Plants (Grades 3 to 5) and Climate and Place (Grades 6 to 8). They also support teachers by giving them the tools and confidence to integrate regular outdoor learning opportunities into their teaching practices. Sierra Club BC has facilitated professional development trainings for teachers in school districts across the province.

Sierra Club BC's nature-based workshops are planting seeds to sprout environmental stewards through a holistic shared lens of Indigenous teachings and scientific knowledge. Their goal is to help students develop a relationship with their natural surroundings in the hope that they will act to protect the plants, animals and ecosystem around them.

Reflecting on 7 years of Music Festing

by Lauren Miller

As the flurry of summer subsides, friends and acquaintances ask me about this year's Quadra Island Arts and Music Festival, aka Quadrapalooza. I get the gamut from warm simple thanks to noise complaints and more underhanded comments about more "family friendly" events on the island. As any event organizer can attest, coordinating any 3 day event is an exhausting enterprise - much less trying to wrangle musicians, hippies, hitchhiking volunteers, families, vendors (and various combinations of all of these) into some semblance of a harmonious experience.

This year, Quadra's classic community values of cooperation and volunteerism combined with years of experience to overall find a smoother flow setting up, taking down, and running the festival. And this year, like many, prompted reflection on what, exactly, makes me want to lose sleep for a week straight and take on responsibility for a wide scope of individuals who may be taking varying degrees of responsibility for themselves. I'm not particularly a partier, why knock myself out for what some people describe as a giant party?

The answer for me, is that I see so much more than a party.

I see musicians collaborating, learning new things and inspiring one another. I see children and parents gathering, playing, painting, and dancing together. I see young visual artists gaining courage and self-confidence in their work, when patrons applaud their creativity and offer them twice the asking price for their paintings. I've witnessed four generations of family coming together, families and friends celebrating their musical lineages and sharing the stage together. I've watched the patrilineal descendant of Quadra's namesake (Don Juan Francisco de la Bodega y Quadra) blow everyone's mind with his impassioned musical channelling, after having his mind blown paddling the surging tidal narrows of these islands for the first time.

In a larger societal context that increasingly values productivity and efficiency over creative expression, and where mainstream music is heavily commercialized and produced, the importance of maintaining networks of music and art at a grassroots level is somewhat revolutionary. We don't even know why music is so important to our brains, and in particular children's developing minds, but we do know it to be true. So this year when our friend and art director asked me to draw the youngest musician I know for the poster and T-shirts, I overhauled my already overloaded schedule to try to make art for art's sake. And when our volunteer coordinator quit for a job offer, I jumped in once again to wrangle hippies and ask friends and strangers to please stop stepping over our donated orange fencing, and please keep their drinks offsite, because dealing with rebellious teens in the skate park wasn't the point. Actually the skate park was a hub of creative collaboration and messages of community support!

The point is that people create a 3 day community of its own, centred by creative expression, by earning and teaching and inspiring, and they don't have to go to Vancouver Island or a big city to do it. And even with all the ups and downs of the years, that point is something I've been happy to create. Also, for the seventh year running, a rainbow once again emerged over the Community Centre field during setup, and that can't be the worst sign.

(Please note that this article is written from a personal perspective and does not reflect the views of The Quadra Island Arts and Music Festival/Quadrapalooza or any other organization.)

Rural Urban Proportional Option (RUP)

By Bonnie Brownstein

In just a few days after this Discovery Islander is published, Elections BC will start mailing out referendum ballots. Watch for an envelope from Elections BC, and mail in your completed ballot before the November 30th deadline! If you don't receive a ballot by November 3rd, you may request one from Elections BC anytime from Nov. 3rd to 23rd.

All systems on the ballot preserve local and rural representation

Misrepresentation of facts is rampant as the voting period is about to begin. Here are some ACTUAL facts:

- All three systems on the ballot involve keeping a local elected representative (MLA).
- None of the systems involve urban areas gaining more representation at the expense of rural areas.
- No region of the province will have fewer MLAs than it currently does.
- In all three systems on the ballot, MLAs are voted in by BC voters rather than being selected by parties.

For a clear and detailed explanation of the facts on these subjects see the Elections BC website (Source 1) and the Pro Rep Fact Check website – sections on Regional Representation and Appointed MLAs? (Sources 2 & 3)

How the systems on the ballot work – Rural Urban Proportional (RUP)

The ballot features two questions. The first asks whether you prefer to continue using the current voting system or whether you wish to change to a Proportional Representation voting system. The second asks you to choose or rank which of three proportional systems you prefer. If you don't know which system you prefer, just answer only the first question; your vote still counts.

This article focuses on Rural Urban Proportional (RUP); the article already published on October 5 focused on Mixed Member Proportional (MMP). A future article may focus on Dual Member Proportional (DMP).

Variations of Rural Urban Proportional are used in Scandinavian countries such as Sweden, Denmark and Iceland. RUP fits BC's geographic realities by using STV (Single Transferable Vote) in heavily populated urban and semi-urban areas and MMP (Mixed Member Proportional) in sparsely populated, rural areas. The riding we live in would likely qualify as rural. We would still have a local MLA, plus there would be a small number of regional MLAs – see the article published on October 5 or the sources listed below for how MMP works.

STV is the only system that was on the ballot in the previous BC referendums on electoral system reform, but the Rural Urban Proportional option also includes a component more suited to rural areas (e.g. MMP). A high percentage of British Columbians live in the heavily populated areas that would use STV. Under STV, a number of adjacent ridings will be combined and represented by multiple MLAs. Say four ridings are combined – the new district riding would have four MLAs. Each party can run multiple candidates in that larger riding. Using a ranked ballot, voters can choose as many or as few candidates as they like, and will often have a choice among candidates of the same party. The result is a team of local MLAs who reflect the diversity of how people voted. The number of MLAs elected in each of the new ridings would vary depending on population density, as few as 2 MLAs in semi-urban areas and up to 7 MLAs in the most densely populated urban areas. This system provides maximum voter choice and proportionality is assured. For more details see Sources 4- 6.

If Proportional Representation is adopted, an independent electoral boundaries commission will determine district and regional boundaries. (Source 4) Our government adopted the recommendation that “a second referendum be held after two provincial general elections in which the proportional representation voting system is used on whether to keep that system or revert to the First Past the Post voting system.” (Source 7) There was a second referendum held in New Zealand after they adopted Proportional Representation in 1996 and they voted to keep proportional representation in place. (Source 8)

A Crawl Down The Ogre

A Presentation by Himalayan Climber Doug Scott CBE

Introduced by Rob Wood

Famous British Himalayan climber and photographer, Doug Scott, (known in the international climbing community as “The Great Survivor”), will visit the BC West Coast this fall.

Introduced by his old friend, local veteran mountaineer Rob Wood, Doug will give an illustrated presentation of one of the grandest epic survival stories of all time at the Tidemark Theatre, Campbell River on Monday, October 29th starting at 7:30pm.

Doug Scott and Chris Bonington, icons of British mountaineering, made the first ascent of The Ogre (7285m) in the Karakoram in 1977. Their climb extended the boundaries of what had been achieved before at that altitude - but it was the subsequent descent from the summit in the dark, turning a catalogue of disasters into an epic. The Ogre wasn't climbed again for twenty four years.

The story of this expedition has since entered mountaineering folklore as one of the most dramatic stories of hard climbing, team work and survival against all odds recounted in Doug's famously laconic and humorous style. The talk has been refreshed with the aid of newly discovered photographs and material from diaries from other members of the team – Chris Bonington, Nick Estcourt and Clive Rowland - plus cine film and audio tapes recently discovered in an attic and made by the late Mo Anthoine on the expedition.

In 1995 Doug founded the UK-registered charity Community Action Nepal to help the mountain people of Nepal who had helped him achieve his climbs. CAN www.canepal.org.uk is largely supported by Doug's lectures. Most of CAN's projects in Nepal, including rural health posts, schools, hostels, demonstration homes and porter rescue shelters, were damaged if not completely destroyed by the devastating earthquakes of 2015 – millions of people are still homeless.

All proceeds (after expenses) from this tour will support CAN's post-earthquake reconstruction program. Doug will provide a brief update on the progress that's been made and future plans.

After the Doug's main presentation there will be an opportunity for questions and answers and sales of signed copies of Doug's recently published autobiography Up and About and his new book The Ogre – Biography of a mountain and the dramatic story of the first ascent (Boardman Tasker Award nominee) and Rob's books, At Home in Nature and Towards The Unknown Mountains.

Nolan Benjamin King

December 15, 1976 - October 5, 2018

Sadly, on Friday, October 5, Nolan passed away suddenly at his home in Aldergrove. He was 41 years young.

Nolan is survived by the loves of his life, his daughters Jordyn & Zoey. His mother Diane King, his father and stepmom Ed King (Laurie), his brothers Dylan (Brittany) and Dustin (Melissa), 2 stepbrothers and 1 stepsister. He also leaves behind many aunts, uncles, nephews, a niece, cousins and many friends.

Nolan grew up and attended school on Quadra Island and always called it home. He was naturally athletic and excelled at many sports, with golf being his favourite.

Nolan was a proud father and his girls were his world. He had an easygoing personality, a big smile and a kind heart. He will be dearly missed by all that had the pleasure of knowing him.
