Banff Mountain Film Festival World Tour

Tidemark - Friday, Dec 4 and Quadra Community Centre - Sat Dec 5

The early winter winds are blowing across the west coast. Along with the change in seasons comes the Banff Mountain Film Festival World Tour with its annual visit to the North Island.

Every year in Banff, Alberta filmmakers from around the world gather with a collection of exhilarating and provocative films that explore life in the mountains. They highlight remote cultures, intense expeditions into exotic landscapes and bring adrenaline-packed action sports into sharp focus.

The festival celebrates mountain films and literature and a juried selection heads out from Banff to communities around the world.

This years film show plays in Campbell River at the Tidemark Theatre on Friday, December 4 and on Quadra Island at the Community Centre, on West Road, with an entirely different program the following evening Saturday, December 5. Door open for both shows at 6:30pm and tickets are available from the Tidemark box office between noon and 4pm 250.287.7465.

In an action-packed line up look for A Line Across the Sky which won the Best Climbing Film category, sponsored by Alpine Club of Canada. This film by Peter Mortimer, Josh Lowell illustrates a daring climb traversing the iconic skyline of Patagonia's Cerro Fitz Roy by Tommy Caldwell and Alex Honnold. Their epic adventure spanned four miles and 13,000 feet across snow and ice-covered rock, with difficult route finding and endless rappelling. Honnold and Caldwell are world class climbers who were pushed to the limit through a five day push.

Also shortlisted for this years local program is Operation Moffat. This UK production by Jen Randall, Claire Carter and Alex Messenger showcases inspiration and wit from the colourful climbing life of Britain's first female mountain guide Gwen Moffat. Writer Claire Carter and filmmaker Jen Randall scramble, swim and barefoot climb through Gwen's landscapes, grappling with her preference for mountains over people, adventure over security and wilderness over tick lists.

Don't miss this superb opportunity to see cutting edge adventure films in our home town. Call the Tidemark box office for tickets (Quadra tickets available at the door) and stay tuned online at wildisle.ca for news of the local program as it becomes available.

The Spirits of Christmas

Come join Quadra Youth Theatre for Christmas Carol at the Community Centre on Saturday, Dec. 19 at 7:00 pm or Sunday Dec. 20 at 2:00 pm. Tickets for Saturday's show are $10 at Inspirations or Works of H'Art and $15 at the door. Admission to Sunday's show are by donation.

Your daughter is in her room texting on her phone. Your son is in his room killing random people on his x-box. Your wife is Skyping her daughter from your room and you are googling tofu recipes and wondering what dress you're going to wear to the party tomorrow night. Hmmm. Maybe it's time to put away some of those socially isolating, modern inconveniences and do something the whole family can enjoy — something old fashioned but brought back new and exciting.

Christmas Carol is the Dickens classic adapted for this production by Dickens' great great great granddaughter Charlene. Follow the modern day travails of Carol Scrooge as ghosts of her past try and teach her the spirit of Christmas. Directed by Alescator Simms this play, featuring actors aged from 8 to 17, is both a homage to the original screen version and modern stage technique.

But wait, there's more! You also get to see Santa's very first Christmas appearance. The Darwinians think he evolved from Insubordinate Clauses through Subordinate Clauses into Santa Clause. The Scandinavians think he was an elf that survived Ragnarok. The Europeans claim him as Saint Nick, the patron saint of bad barbers. The North Americans think his father was Capitalism and his mother was Advertising. We know better. Come join Youth theatre as we celebrate Christmas the old fashioned way, with peace, love and a bit of humour.

Curious about Cohousing?

Recently Harbourside Seniors Cohousing project in Sooke and Creekside Cohousing in Courtenay have attracted media attention and an information workshop in the Comox Valley. On Quadra, several people expressed interest in cohousing in the Seniors Housing Survey.

For Harbourside see: <http://tinyurl.com/pusbw34>

For Creekside see: www.creeksidecommons.net

For Cohousing info see: www.cohousing.ca

Cohousing involves a group of people agreeing to buy land together and build their own strata-title homes with shared amenities such as a common dining/meeting/workshop building. They share operating expenses of exterior building maintenance, landscaping, groundskeeping, common utilities and co-manage their complex. To accomplish this they hire a cohousing development consultant who guides them through the 2-year process of deciding to live in cohousing and the design and building of their project.

The Joint Housing Committee is willing to call a meeting with those interested in Cohousing in early January. If you are interested in knowing more or being part of a cohousing project on Quadra, please call Mary McIntosh: 285-3084 or email Maureen McDowell at mcboas@gicable.com by Dec.23/15.

Recent communication from IAT Philippines

Recent communication from IAT Philippines thanks Quadra for all of its support and expresses how valuable this generous contribution has been. The village of Cataw that Quadra is now sponsoring through IAT's Gift of Peace Program is especially grateful. Cataw is a community of families that have relocated from the mountains to Tabuk in the lowlands with the hope of sustaining themselves through farming. They have been organizing themselves and have begun back-yard gardening as well as establishing a community organization and savings account that will serve as an emergency fund when deemed necessary. Recently four families have received livestock that will be ready for breeding within a few months in preparation for passing the offspring on to another village during the next Gift of Peace Program.

The following is a compilation of letters received from Analiza Macad and Zeah Paclay, two young girls from the village of Cataw, whose education Quadra is presently supporting.

Dear Quadra Island Community,

Before anything else I would like to greet you a pleasant good morning and wonderful day.

How are you and your family circle? I hope you are in good health and condition in Canada as we are here in Kalinga province.

I would love to share with you some of my memorable experiences from these past months. Early in September we experienced typhoon Ineng but we thanked the Creator that we were able to stay safe during this time. September was also examination month and after our exams we celebrated our Buwan Ng Wika with the theme "Pilipino Wika ng Pambansang Kaunlaran" which means Filipino language is our country's progress. During our celebration, my classmates and I participated in many different events, especially the cultural presentations and dance. I am happy to inform you that my group was one of the best dancers according to the judges and everyone cheered and clapped their hands for us. I was so happy since my parents were there and they were proud of me. Also in September we began a school garden that we can look after and harvest instead of going to the market. We planted different kinds of vegetables that can survive in this kind of weather when there is very little rain. In the month of October we had very high temperatures and it did not rain. My father was not happy because he is a farmer and could not grow his crops. It means a shortage of food in the coming months because all of the residents in our community are farmers and it is especially bad that the irrigation system has washed out. We hope that the authorities will repair it soon so that even if there is no rain, the farmers can still grow their crops.

I want you to know that I look forward to the times when I am writing these letters to you. I would also like to thank you for loving me and supporting my studies. I have many dreams in life that some day I would hope to achieve by studying well with the support of my family, friends and of course you, my dear sponsors. My family and I thank you for all that you are providing. We wish many blessings and good health to come to you and your families! Photos are Danielle Girard (and Steve Moore) with children and elders in Cataw last February!)

Gyotaku - Eiji Umemura

by DI Arts Editor Dom Fetherston

Gyotaku is the traditional method of creating fish prints by coating fish in pigment and creating a one-of-a-kind reproduction known as a mono-type. In the mid 1800's, Japanese fishing boats were equipped with rice paper, paint brushes and non-toxic sumi-e ink so that prints could be immediately produced of trophy catches that would immortalize the fish which could then be returned to the sea or sold at market.

The tradition continues on Quadra Island today. Eiji (pronounced "A.G.") Umemura is an avid fisher, knowledgeable and well-credentialed fishing guide and the humble creator of exquisite gyotaku prints.

Eiji began fishing at the young age of three. He lived near a creek where his grandmother would often go with him to fish. As he grew older he began to fish everyday. He started to explore different types of waters and different types of fish. In 1985 he was in Ishikari (Campbell River's sister city) in Hokkaido, Japan, when he met Warren Peterson, who was then the owner of April Point Lodge. Peterson was in Japan to promote our area. With Eiji's love of fishing, and Peterson's raving review of our coastal waters, visiting Campbell River – the world's salmon capital

- was a very exciting idea. Eiji took the bait, came to Canada and he was hooked.

He began to work at April Point doing a number of jobs that required little or no knowledge of English. Almost everyday, Eiji would go fishing after work. Slowly he began to meet and make friends with fishing guides and others, and although he suffered from culture shock, he was very happy and very excited with his new surroundings.

From May to October Eiji can often be found on the waters around Quadra Island where he guides others who happily pull up salmon, herring, rock cod and more. Eiji also offers his happy customers the option of having their fish reproduced by the gyotaku method.

Gyotaku provides an alternative to taxidermy. First, Eiji cleans the fish carefully so as to not disturb its delicate scales. Then, non-toxic water-based paints are applied directly to the fish and it is carefully covered with a polyester/cotton cloth and the artist begins to rub the cloth so that a detailed print of the fish is discovered when the cloth is lifted. Unlike traditional methods, Eiji then painstakingly paints the print to highlight the details of each and every scale of the fish. He then paints the eye freehand, and finishes each work with the signature red stamp (Hanko) and he also signs each piece by hand. A print of one fish takes between sixteen to forty hours to complete. Eiji also does gyotaku prints of more than one fish on a single cloth, and sometimes incorporates prints of kelp to augment his works.

Many people come from around the world to not only experience the thrill of fishing in our area, but to also to have their catches recorded by Eiji's masterful talent so that they can not only savor eating their catch, but can also enjoy a stunningly artistic reproduction of their fish that will provide happy memories of fishing with Eiji for years to come.

Shipping Container Bylaw (Not)

The moment you have all been waiting for! I can speak! The Public Hearing on shipping containers has been dealt with by the Board and is now public knowledge, so I can talk about it. It was brought before the Board after the Public hearing in the standard format to give it third reading and final adoption. It is then up to the Directors to decide how to vote on those recommendations. It was pretty clear from the public input that the only vote was a NO vote to giving it third reading and that is what it got. It was defeated. Dead! So once this happens the final adoption recommendation just disappears. So the issue is dead. There will be no prohibition in the proposed zones. There will still be a requirement as there always was, for a siting permit for the larger containers on any property to ensure they do not interfere with other requirements of the zone. Any use as a dwelling will require Building Code requirements just like we are all required to follow at this time. Other than that, I was pleased to see a very respectful, constructive public hearing and thank you for that. Your voices were heard and the system does work.

School District issues

There has been a lot of media and email traffic about the plans that the School District has released to the public. Unfortunately, the notification was very late in the process and the time period for comment was very short. This was due to School District timing that they needed to meet, but in hindsight it is my opinion, that is what caused most of the current situation. As you have demonstrated many times as a community, you want to be consulted. The plan that was released seemed to have very little input but possibly a very large impact on our area. Hence the huge response. I am sure that most of you have read something about the issue in the media and know that there is a phased approach to school reorganization, for lack of a better word. Phase one basically concerned Campbell River schools, but Phase Two was to look at all aspects of "rural schools" (Quadra, Surge Narrows, Cortes and Sayward). People felt that there was a serious lack of consultation built into the rural plan and they reacted. I am not going to try and recount it all here, but will hit a couple of highlights. The Parent Advisory Council (PAC) met and had a discussion and then met with me and we had more discussion and by the time you read this will have met again for more discussion with the broader community. They have also met with our School Trustee. I have taken the issue to the SRD Board and written to the School Board to ask that they defer the decision on any recommendations until the beginning of January. I have now also written to the School Board to ask an even more moderate request that they amend the recommendations to include comprehensive consultation with the communities and the local govt. That will be considered at their Dec. 8th meeting which many people plan to attend. If they adopt that direction then I think that our community will be fine and we will lose nothing and the School District will gain from the input of constituents. So it could be a win / win situation. I am hoping so. We are one community and we all have the best interests of our kids and our community in mind. I know that I will do my best to make things work as will our trustee, Susan Wilson and the PAC. So let's see what happens on Dec. 8th and go from there.

End-of-year SRD Chair's Report

As the Chair of the Board, it is incumbent on me to report back to the Board and the regional community what I have done in the past year on everyone's behalf. I presented that report at the Nov. 26th Board meeting and I am attaching it to this report as a link for your information:

I have thoroughly enjoyed the challenge of leading this organization for the past two years. Advocacy is what I do, whether it be for Area C or for the entire SRD. Media was also high on the priority list and pretty much went on all year. Whether I am elected Chair for another term at our December meeting is yet to be determined. Either way, my goal is to work as hard as I can on behalf of my constituents, locally, provincially and federally.

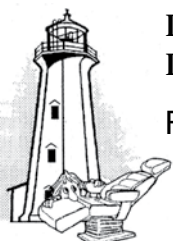

I have an incredible number of people to meet with before Christmas to try and get some things done that need doing, locally, provincially and federally! These are exciting times. I have formed a couple of really good relationships at the provincial level that have committed to advancing some of our projects and I have also had the pleasure of working with some of the new Liberal MP's on issues of importance to the coast. I will be telling you all about that in the new year.

A TWO BAYS HAPPENING: TW Cutblock 12-49 along Granite Bay Creek

TimberWest intends to harvest a small cut-block, TFL 12-49, and has submitted an Operating Plan dated August 20, 2015. I have inquired, hoping for assessment information relevant to this intended harvest. My concern is that, as of this writing, I remain without essential information describing 12-49. To be clear, I am untrained, inexperienced and represent no one but myself. Offerings in this article, I've absorbed from maps, relevant readings, and hikes throughout the area. I can't even claim to be much of a citizen scientist. Nevertheless my home, amongst others, sits within an approximate two kilometres from the area in question. Requiring equal consideration, I believe, is the Granite Bay creek, plus its salmon run. The creek and Granite Bay Road stretch about 300 feet below the intended cut-block.

The information I have collected is as follows:

- TFL 12-49 is, according to my maps, private land owned by TimberWest.
- Geology includes a wide and deep sand bank that borders an extended edge closest to Granite Bay Road. In the 1990's an earlier extended sand bank slid, poured into the Granite Bay creek. At that time, this area had been subject to deforestation and road building. This sand slide deeply impacted the fish run and, it was feared, surely should obliterate the chum and coho run. Both species have returned, if in smaller numbers. Subsequent conventional wisdom includes possibility that the Granite Bay Creek might easily again be subject to a deluge of sand, thereby, reasonably, no longer remain fish-bearing.
- The Wei Wai Kum Campbell River office confirms by email that the office has reviewed the TW Operating Plan for this cut-block and approves. I have invited the Wei Wai Kum office to provide supporting data/assessment information relevant to First Nations interest, but as yet have no record of reply.
- Quadra Island Salmon Enhancement (QISES), upon invitation from TW, has reviewed the cut-block and submitted QISES suggestions. These emphasize water run-off and debris placement. Comments reference: 1) Debris, possibly rock placement relative to water run-off through sandy terrain; 2) A confined catch-basin to slow down and settle debris prior to flowing through a culvert; 3) A single culvert's removal; and 4) Possible consultation with a terrain specialist. TW's reply has become: No terrain specialist was consulted for this block, but one, given QISES' comment, would be to re-determine a possible alternative to slash orientation. TimberWest remains open to considering a best way to slow down a particular stream prior to reaching fish.

My reading of TimberWest's reply to QISES is that water run-off inevitably will be altered. Mitigation will be considered and TW will do what it might; but nothing will be done at the expense of worker safety. I do not question the requirement for worker safety and expect TW to meet, even exceed, safety standards. I do question, however, because I do not have other information: 1) What is the status quo of existing eco-systems? What become harvesting impacts upon forest, creek, and marine life? 2) Although worker safety remains a priority, shall all else be expendable for the sake of a corporate bottom line? These are very old trees to be harvested. 3) All considered, might not a choice be on the table for discussion, that is, to not harvest this particular block?

I understand that earlier public suggestions (about 14 years ago) prioritized water run-off. Of course, water run-off will change given 14 years.

As recently as three weeks ago I inquired of TW its clarification of the legend for its 12-49 Operating Plan map. I have no record of a reply.

My reading of various maps shows the following:

- Terrain Gradient (slopes) range 40%-80%. These gradients, along with other information, suggest steep and established complex terrain (various eco-systems that support older forests). My understanding is that once the older trees are gone, systems change. If in fact they can reestablish, this would require perhaps another 100 years.
- Dominant tree specie appears to include Douglas Fir, which is a keystone species. Need remains to determine type of Douglas Fir (vetting information) to distinguish this specie from the several species of endangered types along the coastal region. Need also is to examine forest diversity.

- Ages of some trees are approximately 80 to 100 years (second growth).
- Headwaters are not indicated. Need is to identify to confirm all water channels.
- Identified water channels includes at least two main ones, which given feet-on-ground review suggests running water above the cut-block, down through forested wetlands, thence providing significant seepage into more wetlands just above and along, into the Granite Bay Creek (bearing coho, chum, steelhead). Both channels appear to enable complex water-born eco-systems throughout 12-49 and below. An earlier 2005 map indicates that one of the two stream is fish bearing. The current TW Operating Plan does not. In any event, these inter-related systems touch one side of Granite Bay Road and resume as marshland on the other side. Indeed, marsh land prevails below the cut-block and on either side of Granite Bay Road.

In effect, without further data-based definition, initial conventional wisdom strongly suggests an existing corridor of eco-systems that ultimately enrich the Granite Bay creek systems that, in turn, remain essential to salmon, associated marine life, and forest wildlife. Modifying water channels above reasonably will modify water channels below. But in what way?

Perhaps further clarifications and comments from DFO, MoE, Forestry and Transportation have been completed? This would be in keeping with a "system's required" full vetting of any cut-block. That is, I've been told such full and complex vetting is required for all cut-blocks. However, I've been told as well that a full vetting is not always the case, given extensive complexities.

Complete transparency by all related chairs and offices that support fully updated public disclosure and discussion – together – will endorse the integrity of local understanding and decision-making regarding this cut-block. I welcome all interests.

Again, my ultimate interest is the health of the Granite Bay creek and its salmon run. I live within a stone's throw. I've remained enchanted, listening to the creek plus people who describe this small area by saying "It doesn't get any more beautiful than this."
–Vicki Biro

Harry Manx Fuses East and West

Harry Manx has spent years fusing eastern musical traditions with the blues.

He switches effortlessly between guitar, harmonica, banjo and the mohan veena, a 20-stringed instrument invented by Manx's mentor Vishwa Mohan Bhatt.

Manx blends Indian folk melodies with slide guitar blues, adds a sprinkle of gospel and some compelling grooves to create his unique 'mysticssippi' flavour. He quickly envelops the audience with his warm vocals and the beautiful melodies of his original songs. It's hard to resist, easy to digest and keeps audiences coming back for more.

Harry Manx has an impressive collection of awards to prove how skilled and hard-working he is. He's received seven Maple Blues Awards and his mantel shelf also holds honours from the Canadian Folk Music Awards, Vancouver magazine Georgia Straight, and the South Australia Blues Society. He received CBC Radio's Great Canadian Blues Awards for 2007 and his albums have garnered five Juno nominations.

Experience Harry Manx live December 4 and 5 at the Heriot Bay Inn. Seats are $79 and include a two course dinner; there are a limited number of show-only seats available at $59. Call the Heriot Bay Inn to reserve your seats: 250.285.3322.

You're Invited To A Global Celebration Of Human Rights

Amnesty International Campbell River Writing Circle would like to invite you to join them at the Campbell River Public Library, on Thursday, December 10 between 1:00pm and 4:00pm, to take part in the celebration of International Human Rights Day, by helping to write letters in support of human rights.

Why on December 10th? It was on December 10th, 1948, that the Universal Declaration of Human Rights (UDHR), was adopted by world leaders at the United Nations. John Humphrey, a Canadian, was one of the principal writers of the UDHR. Most international human rights laws that we know today have been based on the UDHR.

Now each year on or around December 10th, activists in more than 140 countries around the world come together to participate in 'Write for Rights' - writing letters to authorities responsible for selected cases of human rights abuses, sending the message that human rights should be both promoted and protected. It is unfortunate that in many countries in our present time, unfair trials, enforced disappearances and unlawful eviction to name a few incidences of human rights abuse, are still common.

Write for Rights is the power of one multiplied many thousand times over to make a difference in people's lives. And we have proof that our letters work. Amnesty International's activism has been a significant factor in helping many of the individuals we have profiled in the past. In Canada alone, over 30,000 participants contributed more than 35,000 letters to the worldwide total.

It's easy to take part - be one of those who makes a difference. Come join us on December 10. The library is located at 1240 Shopper's Row. For more information call D.Gosling, at 250-286-6129.

In this case both dogs were off leash. In the second incident a woman was walking her two small dogs on leash down the road when two large dogs came charging out at her.
